

The Friendly Bulletin

Published by the High Point Friends Meeting since 2020

Home Edition

Week of August 21, 2022

Vol. 125

We have decided to continue this Bulletin for a while because many of us are still at home.

# Some Things to Try

Don't eat for 3 or 4 hours before bed

Develop a restful bedtime routine

Meditate for 15 minutes before bed

Turn OFF electronics At bedtime

New methods of Exfoliation

Call an old friend

Explore different types of solar

Check out the solar programs in NC

Don't forget your 15 minutes of Sketching

Google ART Question:

What Kind of jobs are there in a museum

The Funnies/Did You Know

You Can Increase
your metabolic rate by just getting 7-9 hours of sleep every night

Fingerprints
are developed within just three months of conception,

Your Tongue
has a pattern as unique as your fingerprint.

By the Age of 70
you will have shed around 100 pounds of skin.

The Average Person
will say around 5,000 words
every single day.

Your Hair
will grow at twice the rate it usually does in an airplane.

20 States
Have solar incentives

This Weeks Google Question:
Does the average solar instillation cover the average bill

We Hold Up in Prayer
Our Homebound Members,
Our Grieving Members,
The Families of
Ronnie Murr, Groome Fulton
Will Holland & Harry Smith
Our Recovering Members
Charles Riehs, Carol Pierce, JD Dobbins, Linda Embler,
Nancy Blair & Theron Farlow

Program Links

Ctrl Click to follow Link

[https://theartgorgeous.com
/how-to-land-a-job-in-a-museum/](https://theartgorgeous.com/how-to-land-a-job-in-a-museum/)

[https://landing.advanced.jhu
.edu/](https://landing.advanced.jhu.edu/)

[https://asuonline.asu.edu/
art/degree](https://asuonline.asu.edu/art/degree)

[Museum Studies - HIS -
UNCG](https://his.uncg.edu/museumstudies)

[https://his.uncg.edu >
museumstudies](https://his.uncg.edu/museumstudies)

[Top Museum Studies in North Carolina 2022+ - Grad
Schools](https://www.gradschools.com)

https://www.gradschools.co m > Fine Arts & Design

There is an Artist in Everyone ~ Find Yours

Keep Practicing . . . . .*List of museum jobs and what they do*Archivist:

Perhaps the most iconic position in a museum, an archivist is responsible for maintaining the collection of artifacts, art, objects, documents, and historical or otherwise relevant items to the museum. For those with a detail-oriented and scrupulous nature, this is the job for you, as archiving requires great detail and organizational skills. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, most archivists will earn about $48,000 annually. Most museums require archivists to have a bachelor's degree in library science, archival science, history, art, or other subject-relevant majors.

Curators:

Curators hold one of the highest positions among the museum hierarchy of employment. Curators are responsible for managing and overseeing collections for a specific exhibit, gallery, or section of a museum. While the needs and demands of a curator vary depending on the size of a museum, lead curators can be expected to plan and organize exhibits, seek funding, promote their ideas in board meetings, initiate community involvement, and review display items in their designated area of authority. Most curators will need a masters in the subject relevant to a museum's focus. Yearly wages for curators vary between $50,000-$80,000, depending on their seniority and the size of the museum.

Museum Conservator

: Art and history conservators are one of the most important and technical positions in a museum. Along with an archivist, conservators work in the archives of a museum and are responsible for maintaining an institution's artifacts and historical documents. Conservation specialists and technicians need to have gone through extensive research in order to make preventative conservation measures, including environmental and climate control, pest management, storing and packaging of sensitive items, and finding optimal encasing methods. Along with preservation, conservators also look to reverse damages, prevent long-term deterioration, and retain the aesthetic appeal of certain items. Conservators and museum technicians can earn anywhere from $35,000 to $60,000, depending on the size and scale of their museum. Most conservators will have a master's degree in art/history conservation.

Exhibit Designer:

Exhibit designers are the creative and inventive minds behind an exhibition. They give life to artwork, artifacts, and the museum's most treasured items by creating new and exciting exhibits. Exhibit designers need to work closely with curators in order develop plans for future exhibitions. Because curators work closely with the marketing team and other directors, they can instruct and guide designers on the long-term goals of the museum and begin to coalesce ideas on future exhibits. Exhibit designers will commonly have a bachelor's in theater or set design, and most designers can expect to earn between $40,000 to $60,000 annually.

Museum Educator:

Museum educators are there to inform and familiarize visitors with the items, history, and backgrounds of certain exhibits. You could find museum educators providing guided tours, sitting at information booths, or publishing information on the museum's website to expand online educational resources. Some educators might be doing research for the museum; this is especially true in the case of historians working in a museum. Educators may also be expected to write pamphlets for certain exhibits or galleries. Those with a passion for history, culture, and learning are best suited for this position. Museum educators typically earn between $30,000-$40,000 annually. A bachelor's degree in education, history, art, or the relevant subject is usually the minimum requirement.